The Future of Work Integrated Learning – Student Panel

Presenters:

Students:
Gladys Aquino
Georgia Wood
Tessa Macleod
Christine Foster and
Claire Bott

Abstract:

“Curtin Business School, through industry-connected innovative teaching and research, develops internationally focused graduates committed to excellence”. In the Curtin Business School (CBS), Work Integrated Learning (WIL) is recognised as a strategic priority, and aims to provide students with access to WIL opportunities during the course of their studies.

One such opportunity is the newly formed partnership between the CBS and the Chamber of Commerce and Industry Western Australia (CCIWA). Come along to this panel to hear more about this unique partnership from the perspective of students, CBS and CCIWA staff – and the future of WIL in CBS.